

SHORT TERM CITY

Digital platforms
and spatial justice

BARBARA BROLLO

PHD Candidate

La Sapienza - MEMOTEF

Barbara Brollo is a PhD candidate at Università La Sapienza, Methods and Models for Economics, Territory and Finance (MEMOTEF) department, curriculum in Economic Geography. She has previously studied political sciences and development economics in Rome and urban planning in Barcelona. Her current research project is about the impact of temporary population in the city of Rome. She collaborates with the Italian Geographical Society.